

Akathist to our Father among the Saints Chad, Bishop of Lichfield

The composition of Reader Nectarios from Hawaii

As a true shepherd of the flock of Christ, thou didst bring the Orthodox Christian faith to the land of Mercia. In following the example of the Holy Apostles, thou didst minister to thy flock, traversing the land on foot. Refusing earthly riches, thou didst proclaim that thou art not above the common man. Rejoice, holy hierarch Chad, great wonderworker for all ages!

Aware of thy revered holiness as Abbot of Lastingham, the king Oswy demanded thee as bishop for the See of York. Unwilling to accept such a task, thou didst so only in obedience to thy brethren. Thy humble-mindedness greatly shineth forth for all the ages to bear witness, and thus we shall forever cry: Alleluia!

O great hierarch Chad, when thy episcopate was questioned by the holy Theodore, thou didst relinquish it with great piety, calling thine unworthiness as reason. So moved by such humility, Theodore found in thee a true image of the High Priesthood, and thus called upon thee to be bishop of Mercia In thine emulation of Christ. Help us to emulate thee, O vessel of true Christian humility.

Rejoice, thou who did take up the Episcopal throne through obedience, only to relinquish it through obedience.

Ikos 4

Following the Apostle Paul's charge to pray without ceasing, thou didst seek solitude at the bottom of the well. Gaining spiritual wisdom in unceasing prayer, thou didst obtain the greatest gift, beholding the Uncreated Light, and thus we sing: Alleluia!

Ikos 6

While hunting their quarry, the heathen sons of Wulfhere found thee praying in silence. So impressed by thy sight, a frail old man upon his knees, face glowing in prayer, they knelt before thee and asked thy blessing. True holiness did they find in earthly flesh, and asked to be baptized into Christ. Then the wicked Wulfhere, the Mercian King, having fallen into the hands of the evil one, wast filled with great anger and slew them both. Seeking the same for thee, he approached thy humble cell and bore witness to a great sight, a blinding light, the Uncreated Light that shone upon thee. We follow the cry of King Wulfhere, "holy hierarch Chad, have mercy on me!"

Rejoice, hallowed vessel of the Uncreated Light!

O miracle-maker! Healing ailments of the flesh and pangs of the soul, proclaiming the Word of God on foot! Boast of God's elect and glorious intercessor! How can we who are sinful recall such great feats, when our own souls are filled with evil and mould? We cry to thee, beseech our Eternal Lord, the Holy and Divine Word, to fill our iniquitous hearts with Christian love and virtue, singing: Alleluia!

Ikos 7

Giving help to the helpless, and hope to the afflicted, thy miracle-working relics bear the healing grace of God. He hath given thee the power to work wonders. In thee, His greatness is shone forth; thus now and forever we join the angelic hosts in song, glorifying our Father in the heavens.

O Divine and sacred temple of the Holy Spirit! We cry to thee, for our sorrow is great, and we are worthy of every judgement that befalleth us. But perchance if thou shouldst intercede on our behalf, we may be assuaged of suffering. We entreat thee, O holy hierarch, show us the way to joy and beauty, as we sing: Alleluia!

During great tempests thou didst preach to thy people, "God doth thunder forth from the heavens, He doth rouse the faithful to look to the future judgement." "Examine your hearts, and do good, that ye may never be struck down!" O ye faithful, heed these great words, let us remember our iniquities and let us sing:

Knowing full well God's will, thou didst remain unwavering in faith, a model of virtue for all Christians to emulate! Hearken unto our cry, when we call upon thee in our daily struggle with the enemy. We look upon thee as our inspiration, and pray that the angels may come unto us, as of old they came unto thee.

With the threat of the plague, thou didst choose to stand fast and remain with thy flock rather than flee, only to fall victim to the same suffering. O protector and defender of the infirm and afflicted! Thy body became a prison house of pain and torment. Thou didst give thy life for thy people, and thus forever receive a great reward in the heavens, a crown of victory, and thus we sing: Alleluia!

Seeking thy return to thy heavenly home, God sent His angels to bring thee unto Him. O wonder and valiant champion of the Church. Angels chariot thee, and men honour thee! Help us in our time of need, and beseech God to illumine our souls with His Divine Light.

The innocent and the just know well thy greatness, for many have come to thy tomb, seeking thy protection. We honour thee, O great warrior of Christ! We have witnessed thy wonders, do thou now help us in our suffering as thou didst help thy flock in Mercia. Prayer of the Akathist to Saint Chad of Lichfield

O Jesus Christ God, the Divine Logos, we beseech Thee that we may be deemed worthy to recall the works of Thy great wonderworker and hierarch Chad. We pray that we may find grace through his great piety, humility, unceasing prayer, fasting and obedience to his brethren. We seek his counsel and intercessions before Thy glorious Throne. We ask Thee, our God, to grant us humility, love and steadfastness in faith and teaching. Bestow good thoughts and intentions upon us and upon our brothers and sisters, and especially upon our enemies who wrong us. Help us in times of need to call upon holy Chad's humility to Saint Theodore. As a model of obedience, holy Chad relinquished the See of York, feeling unworthy of such an honour, and so was rewarded with a great See in Mercia and, more, precious humility. Help us, O Almighty God, to emulate humble Chad and preserve us from selfish and vain thoughts. Help us never to forget those that suffer, the downtrodden and the unfortunate. Be a hand for us, when in humility, we step aside for others. Keep us, for the sins of pride, vanity and lust are hard to battle and conquer, and only through Thee are they truly defeated. May we learn to love one another in Thee, O Christ, and may we strive for concord through Thee with those before us and around us. May we put aside all earthly cares and come to the knowledge of Thine Eternal Truth. Thou art the Divine Architect Who didst shape this vast universe and Whose power is limitless. We humbly beg Thee, forgive us our sins, for Thy power is great and we are weak. Remember humble Chad's prayers for our sake, and have mercy on us in Thy dread Judgement. For Thine is the kingdom and the power and the glory, of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, always, now and ever and unto the ages of ages. Amen.
